

OUTLINE PLANS TO BUILD NEW FALCON HOME IN THIS CITY

National President Addresses Gathering at Celebration of Anniversary.

In an address before a gathering of the South Bend nest No. 86, Polish Falcons Alliance of America, last night at their hall, A. Plutnicki, Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the national body, particularly stressed plans now under consideration for the erection of a magnificent new home for the Alliance in this city.

Although the plans have not been completed, Mr. Plutnicki intimated that the society has practically agreed that the time is now ripe for such development in this city. The new building will be fitted up with modern gymnastic equipment and living quarters for members, besides serving the purpose of a recreation center for the section of the city.

The erection of such an edifice has long been the ideal of the order, "Mr. Plutnicki stated," in keeping with their belief that healthy thoughts are synonymous with healthy bodies.

Last night's gathering, which filled Z. B. hall to overflowing, assembled to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the South Bend nest, observance of which is to continue the entire week. The celebration will be brought to a close next Sunday, when a banquet will be given at the city hall.

Polish Falcons Z. B. No. 1 hall, followed by a grand ball for the members, the men and women of tomorrow.

In addressing the gathering, Stanley J. Chelminski, president of the South Bend district of the Polish Falcons, outlined the hardships experienced when the local nest was organized and appealed to the parents to have their sons and daughters join the ranks. "Athletics helped the soldiers of the fighting forces in the late war," Mr. Chelminski said, "and such training will tend to improve the men and women of tomorrow."

Peter Rozewicz, vice-president of the Z. B. society, sketched the 25 years' work of the Z. B. society, stating that the society was named after Zygmunt Balicki because of his love of athletics and the development of the Polish youth, both mentally and physically. The seven founders of the society formulated plans on Oct. 3, 1897, for the formation of the local branch, later purchasing the grounds and erecting the present structure.

The celebration last night was opened by M. Struminski, who presented J. P. Rozplockowski, L. Kosiol, S. Andziewski, L. Kosiol, and A. Chelminski, five of the original founders of the local society. Alfred Zariska and Thaddeus S. Blumberg acted as secretaries for the meeting.

The following program was presented:

Music by the Polish Falcons, Z. B. No. 1 band, "Star Spangled Banner" and "Polish Flowers" ("Polskie Kwiaty").

Address by the president of the Polish Falcons, Z. B. No. 1, Peter Rozewicz.

BRIEF ILLNESS FATAL TO MISS ANDRA GUNTER

Andra Gunter, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gunter, residing four miles south of this city on the S. Michigan rd., died at the home of the parents at 8:55 o'clock Saturday night, death having followed a brief illness with a complication of diseases. She had been taken seriously ill four days ago.

Miss Gunter had resided in St. Joseph county about six months, having moved here with her parents from near Marion, Ind., last May. She was born in Sidney, Ind., Jan. 1, 1914 and had attended the grade schools at Sidney. Two brothers, Sheldon and George, living at the home of the parents and two sisters, Mrs. Russell Zynham of Sidney and Mrs. Howard Tynney, North Manchester, Ind., survive.

Brief funeral services will be held at the home this morning at 9 o'clock and the body will be sent to Pileon for burial.

Distinguished Men to Attend Sigma Chi Banquet in City

George Ade '87; John T. McCutcheon '89, famous Chicago Tribune cartoonist; Past Grand Consul W. C. Hennings of St. Louis; Grand Consul Joseph T. Miller, of Pittsburg, and others will be guests of honor at the Sigma Chi reunion and celebration to be held Wednesday at the Oliver hotel.

A seven course banquet will be given in the evening and those who expect to attend the celebration are requested to write or phone R. W. Zarker, Y. M. C. A., for reservations. Automobile parties from neighboring cities will be formed. The entertainment committee says that floral pieces will be sent to those too old to attend.

CALL MASS MEETING.

A mass meeting for colored women interested in the abolishment of lynching in this country will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the court house. The meeting has been called by the 28 Anti-Lynching crusaders, recently appointed by State Crusader Mrs. Sallie Stewart.

Novel Song and Dance Act Best On Orpheum Bill

Bobby Jackson and Company Provide Melody—2 Other High Class Acts.

Song and dance by Bobby Jackson and his company take on new merits in their presentation at the Orpheum theater, featuring the new program they have just received.

Bobby Jackson himself is pretty much the whole show, taking the stage by storm from the very start. His dancing is full of novelty which is a distinct relief from the usual everyday offering, while his songs are melodious as well as pleasing in phrasing.

Assisting Mr. Jackson is a company of three, two girls and another young man. One of the ladies, of pleasing voice and figure, was especially well received in a country song number.

Two Other Acts Good. And though all honor is accorded the Jackson troupe, two other acts must not be lost sight of. Comedy, the ridiculous funny kind, is what makes "Baron" Emerson and "Count" Baldwin successful, but an athletic offering, featuring boxing and wrestling matches between girls, is fully as clever in its line.

A Gypsy revue which features Gypsy songs is the opening number and is followed by the Plantation Four, a harmonious quartet of darkies. When Jimmy Guitoy acts the part of the unsophisticated boy who is subjected to the wiles of a vamp he draws many a laugh from the crowd. The usual movies are included in the bill.

Girl, Supposedly Shot By Police, Buried By Klan

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 22.—(By A. P.)—With members of the Ku Klux Klan in charge of the funeral services, Nellie Hale, 14, who was killed Friday night by a shot supposedly fired by police, was buried today. A crowd estimated at 5,000 waited in the cemetery for the cortege, in which marched 100 members of the Ku Klux Klan, robed and with their hoods raised.

No uniformed police were to be seen. Klansmen handled traffic in the streets. Two klansmen, and six girls, friends of the victim, were killed in the riot.

The funeral was the only development today in the police situation, which reached a climax last night when 12,000 persons attended a mass meeting of the K. K. K. and demanded the return of the girl, claiming that the police department had failed to take proper precautions for the preservation of life.

Nellie Hale was the second person accidentally killed here since summer, while police were attempting to make arrests. She was riding with two brothers when killed. According to the brothers, a police car raced down the road pursuing another car, the officers firing. Their sister leaped out of the car and was struck by a bullet. The brother, chief of police, have been discharged, say the girl was killed by a shot from the fleeing car.

Several months ago Dr. W. W. Weitenberger was killed while walking on a street with his wife. Police were firing in an attempt to arrest Charles Haynes, who had tried to kill his wife. Haynes also was killed.

Previously John House, a patrolman, was killed during a raid. He was bound in a room and killed accidentally by his police companions.

On Sept. 21 Patrolman John Wells is said to have shot Carl Schimpf, a youth he had arrested in connection with a dance hall fight. Schimpf was shot in one leg and died to death. A coroner's jury held that the shooting was unjustified and that Schimpf had been killed because the police failed to obtain medical attention promptly.

A charge of manslaughter was placed against Wells and he is now on bond awaiting trial. He is still a member of the police department. At the inquest Wells testified that orders had been issued by his commanding officer to shoot and ask questions afterwards.

Romance of Bonnie Scotland Culminates in Wedding Here

A romance of the old world happily culminated Saturday evening when James MacKenzie, a gardener on the Eskine estate at Twickenham park, was married to Miss Sadie M. Ritchie, late of Glasgow, Scotland. The romance had begun in Scotland in their childhood and was greatly accentuated later when MacKenzie unexpectedly met his future bride while on a visit to his native land.

The wedding took place at the Indiana Avenue Christian church parsonage, Rev. John Belleville, pastor of the church performing the ceremony. The couple was attended by a girlhood friend, Miss Helen Reed, and Guy E. Kelly, both of this city. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of Mrs. J. C. Kelly, 1819 Robertson st., after which the couple left on a motor honeymoon trip through southern Michigan.

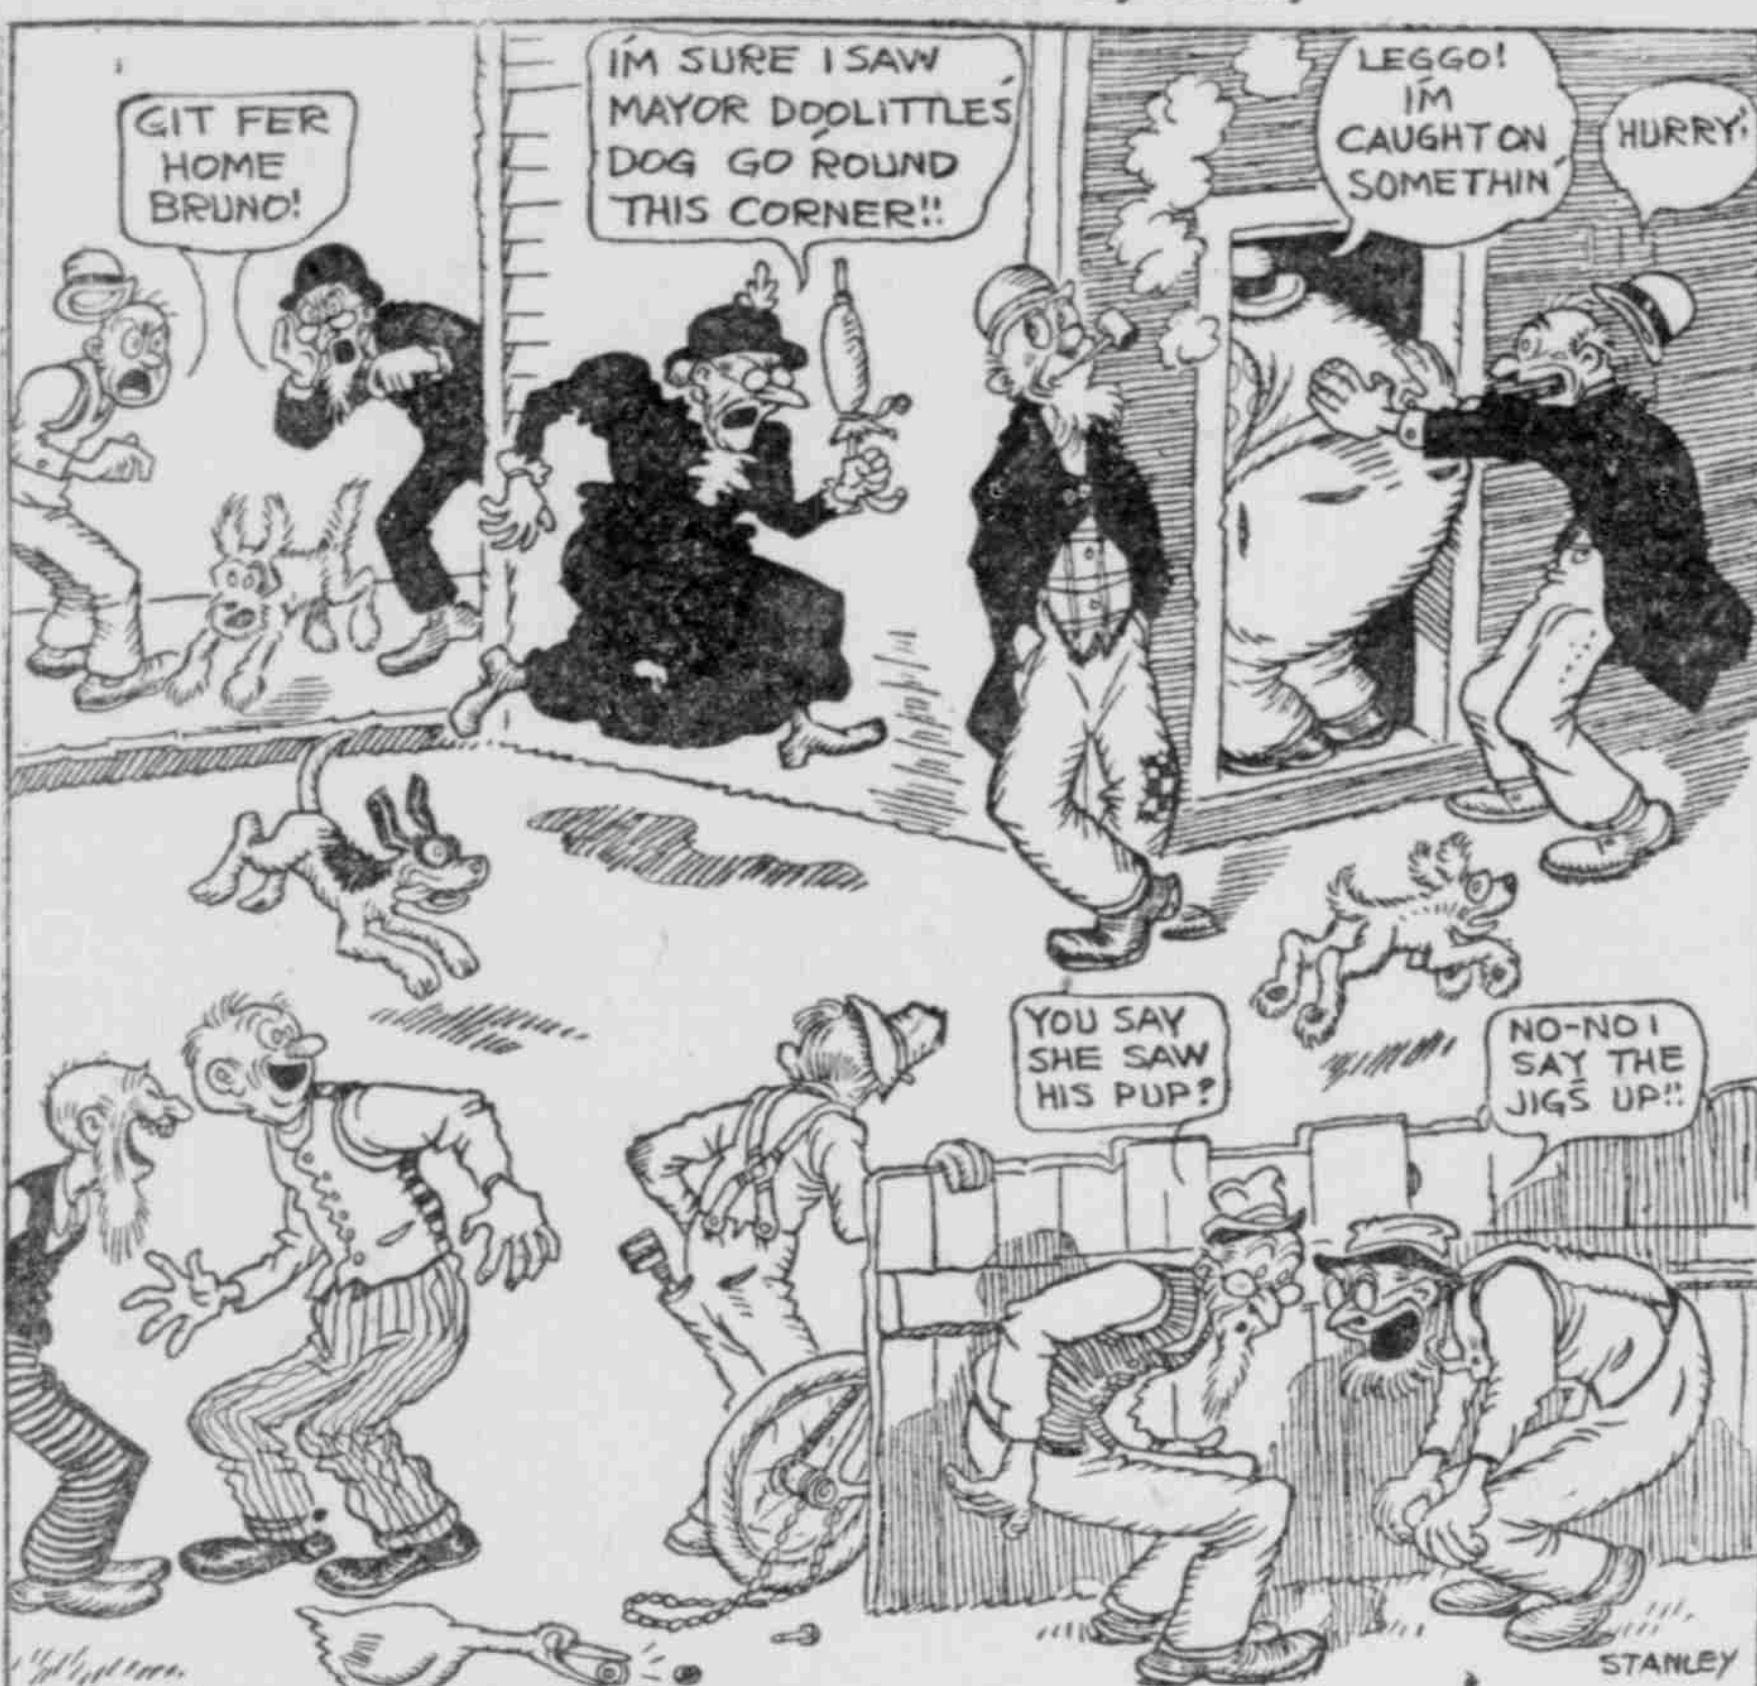

TO READ PAPER.

The Nature Study department of the Progress club will hold its regular meeting Tuesday, Oct. 24, at the club home. Mrs. Otto Wolter will read a paper on "Rivers and Valleys" and Miss Amanda N. Combs will read a paper on "Caves of Indiana."

More than fifty friends gathered at the home of Earl O. Raber, 1213 Miner st., Friday evening in celebration of his birthday anniversary. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock after which games and music were enjoyed by the guests.

Officer Wickens, patrolling the downtown section of the city, found an apparently new pair of lemons in a local dealer's case, Saturday night. He is telephoning to the Anti-Lynching crusaders, recently appointed by State Crusader Mrs. Sallie Stewart.

Welfare Worker Flays Americans Who Would Aggravate Jap War

Smith Speaks at Local Church on "America and World War Prospects."

"Every man, editor or politician, who is trying to aggravate a war with Japan is false to the facts, an enemy of peace and a traitor to the stars and stripes," Fred H. Smith, prominent international welfare worker stated, in delivering an address in this city at the First Presbyterian church last night.

Mr. Smith, who recently made a tour of the world for the purpose of rallying Christian forces to a program in order to prevent further outbreaks of war, spoke on the subject, "America and the World War Prospects."

In speaking on the general attitude of foreign countries, especially Japan, to war, Mr. Smith said: "Everywhere I went there existed a powerful, tremendous peace sentiment. Various societies for the promotion of peace were springing up in all foreign countries—including Japan. Japan does not want war with anyone."

All Prepare for War. "However, notwithstanding the great desire for peace everywhere, all foreign countries seem to be preparing for war. On my trip I crossed 18 borders. Everywhere I went, I was told that the country I was in at some time, would have to go to war with the neighboring country, and, upon traveling to that country, I would hear the same thing. Switzerland was the only country I visited where the populace did not say they would have to fight their neighbor."

Switzerland has no special kind of game, I guess I'll have to go over."

"I suppose so," sighed Nurse Jane. And when Uncle Wiggily reached the doggie house he found Jackie and Peetie eagerly waiting for him, while Mrs. Bow Wow had on her bonnet and shawl, ready to go to the store.

"I'm very good of you to come over, Uncle Wiggily," she said.

"I'm glad to do it," spoke the bunny. "But what was it you doggie chicks tried to tell me over the telephone?" he asked. "You both talked in one and I couldn't hear you. What do you want to play?"

"Soldier! Soldier!" barked Jackie and Peetie, both together. "We want to play soldier like Sammie and Susie did, and we want to bang on tin pails and pans and—"

Uncle Wiggily held up one paw and waited for the doggies to become silent.

"If we play soldier we must play a quiet game," said the bunny. "My rheumatism hurts today, and the only soldier game we can play will be to have a parade."

"That suits me!" barked Jackie and Peetie, as their mother went down town shopping.

"First we must make some paper soldier hats," said the bunny. "Will you wear one?" asked Jackie.

"Oh, yes, I'll be in the parade, too," laughed Mr. Longears.

"Let's make Uncle Wiggily captain," proposed Peetie, "and he can march ahead of you and me, Jackie, wearing his paper hat."

"Yes," agreed Jackie.

So Uncle Wiggily made some paper hats with sharp points on top, as all paper soldier hats have. One hat was for Jackie, one for Peetie and one for Uncle Wiggily.

"Forward—march!" cried the bunny gentleman as he placed himself at the head of the little parade. Around and around the room marched the little doggie soldiers, and they were having lots of fun, and not making any more noise than they could help, when, all of a sudden, in through the door that Uncle Wiggily had forgotten to close came the Fox!

"I want ears!" howled the Fox. "Halt!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggily. Jackie and Peetie came to a sudden stop. "Off hats!" commanded Captain Uncle Wiggily. He took off his sharp pointed paper hat, and so did Jackie and Peetie.

"Advance, soldiers!" cried the rabbit. "Stick sharp hats in the ribs of the Fox! Forward!"

Holding the sharp pointed hats in front of them, like spears, Uncle Wiggily, Jackie and Peetie rushed at the Fox!

"Oh, my! None of that for me!" howled the Fox. "Oh, I don't want any sharp paper hats stuck in my

REV. COLE TAKES PARABLE AS TOPIC OF STRONG SERMON

Pastor Cites Failure of "Certain Rich Farmer" to Consider His Soul.

"A certain Rich Farmer" was the subject of a forceful sermon delivered Sunday evening by Dr. Elmer Ward Cole to his congregation at the First Christian church. He took as the foundation of his sermon the parable of the Rich Fool.

Dr. Cole said in part: "The essential feature of the parable is that he layeth up treasure for himself and is not rich toward God. The purpose of the parable is a warning against covetousness; all else is incidental. No one can say 'My heart is free from covetousness' for there is no sin more common. It is applicable to the rich and the poor and to all of the class between. Oh, that we might be rich toward God! 'A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth.'"

This man was a farmer. He had accumulated his wealth by hard work. He had done it legitimately and honestly. He was a producer of wealth and this was most commendable; indeed God blessed the producer. He is the salt of the earth, the savior of society. He was thoughtful and far sighted. He prepared for the day to come. He was intensely practical. He was making reasonable provision for his future needs. He was now ready to retire from the work a day world had neglected soul.

"The whole question hinges on the fact that he had laid up for his body but had not considered his soul. Many a soul has perished with hunger while the body was oppressed with luxury. He was prepared for the probable but not for the inevitable. Though his wealth was dependent upon God who was the giver of the rain and of the sunshine he had forgotten Him and had failed to offer Him his gratitude. He had boasted of his land and of his fruits and of his brains but he had said not a word about his Father or his brother."

"He was a proud, boastful fool. Now this farmer thinks within himself and it is here that we discover the man."

"Character is what you are in the dark. We can know a man by his thoughts in the hour when he is not compelled to think. It is to honor the Lord with the substance of his increase. He forgot the share that God had had in his prosperity. In his prosperity he had forgotten God. Then came the saddest hour of all—'This night thy soul shall be required of thee.'"

"He had laid up goods but he had failed to develop and cultivate his own soul. How much did he have? He left all that he had."

"He had nothing but goods, and goods have no place in a pocket-less shroud. He was standing on the brink of the precipice without God and without hope."

'Bury Me With Cud' Aged Chewer's Wish

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 22.—"Bill" Jackson, a farmer living near here, is 100 years old and 'still stepping.'"

"Tobacco has done it," Jackson declared. "I've chewed tobacco since I was 10 years old and every tooth in my head is as good as it ever was. I never got drunk, although a little beer now and then was not bad. I tend to my farm right along. When I die I want to be buried with a chew of tobacco in my jaw."

Where You Find Value, Not Only in Price But in Quality

Woman Psychologist Will Begin Lecture Series Tonight

Effie McCollum Jones, widely known psychologist and efficient expert will conduct a series of eight free public lectures in the high school auditorium, beginning Monday evening.

Mrs. Jones says that "we are where we are because we are what we are," and to change the "what we are"—to put ourselves in the position we would be, to be able to make friends, to know how to meet the every day affairs of life successfully, we must change the "what we are." Her work said to be purely scientific and constructive, and she opens up to boys men and women a field of possibilities of which they never dreamed.

Mrs. Jones takes up her subject from two different angles—the mental and the physical. Her brother is Dr. Elmer W. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university and considered authority on matters of diet in America. Mrs. Jones is able to get from his latest experiments and conclusions which she in turn gives to her audience long before Dr. McCollum gives them to the world through his books.

From the mental side of her subject she speaks from a knowledge of all that has been discovered on this comparatively new science up to the present time. She numbers among her personal friends the greatest psychoanalysts in America and holds consultations with one or another frequently. Mrs. Jones herself has done some remarkable work in psycho-analysis, but she prefers to teach people how to analyze themselves.
